Fans

This is a local experience and intended to be so. The Apartment is a 5 unit building and is 40 plus years old. The street is very quiet, especially for local living. (there are unoccupied houses on the street)

The residents are older and will always greet you with a smile and a Buenos Dia in the morning, Buenos Tardes in the afternoon and Buenos Noches in the evening.

LAUNDRY

We are Happy to do your laundry for $10 a load. Upon Request local laundromat is within walking distance if needed.

As with a lot of buildings in Puerto Rico there no air conditioner. But the ocean breeze is DIVINE!!

This is a local pueblo, and every once in a while the water pressure may go low, please don't be alarmed and know that it will not last.

The neighborhood

Molly's home is located in Luquillo, (/s/Luquillo--Puerto-Rico) Puerto Rico (/s/Puerto-Rico).

Staying here at LoveSoulBeautiful Guest house you will appreciate and adore the local experience of a true island surfing town. Everything is in walking distance (steps away) from the local coffee shop, homemade ice cream parlor to the 5 star delicious seafood and fun local bar with live music on the weekends.

Some guests have commented on the many unoccupied houses in the area on my street and between the plaza and the ocean. This is not unique to Luquillo - but more concentrated here. I will stress that it is SAFE.

Many of the house have been in families for many generations and distant relatives don't often agree on who should have use of a house, the value of a house if they do agree to sell, or what percentage should go to whom. This is being addresssed gradually, with local ordinances that will encourage families to either fix a house or sell it... but this will take a few years to go into effect. You'll also see examples of this in San Juan's Ocean Park neighborhood where some of the old houses ruin the ambiance. You can either view this as 'the charm of the Caribbean' or an eyesore... and book accordingly. Everyone in town knows which family owns each house - and they probably have some story of growing up there, or friends who lived there... but it is definitely a town in transition.

Getting around

Beaches: You have beaches on every side of Luquillo Town.

La Pared Beach: Just a minute from the house is Luquillo's town beach - La Pared (the wall). This is quiet during the week, but full of local families on weekends. If you face the ocean and walk to the left - you'll find less people. This is Luquillo's surfing beach.

"La Selva" - Nature Reserve Beach: Facing the ocean at La Pared - you'll see the two towers of Sandy Hills condominium to your right. Just walk over the rocks in front of the condos and you'll come to the North East Ecological Reserve. You can walk for miles to enjoy undeveloped beach and great birdwatching. Be aware of several inlets that you may have to wade across or swim if the tide raises during your walk.

Playa Azul (Blue Beach): To the left of La Pared Beach, walk around the point and you'll come to a quiet beach near Luquillo's cluster of high-rise condos at Costa Azul. About a 15 minute walk from the house. This is the best beach for Snorkeling!

Luquillo Public Beach - Playa Monserrate: Continue past Costa Azul and you'll find an undeveloped point where you can imagine you're on a deserted island. Cross a few inlets and you'll round the bend near the campground to arrive at the most famous public beach in Puerto Rico. This is a 'Blue Flag' beach, so it is well maintained and continually checked for water quality. Here you'll find showers, rest rooms, food stands and lots of families having a great time! About a 25 minute walk from the house. Note: you can walk on the road to the public beach in about 15 minutes from the house.

Kioskos: Just past the public beach are 60 'Kioskos' or food stalls. There are usually 20 or 30 stands open so just walk along until you find one that makes you want to stop and enjoy some great Puerto Rican street food. You'll find everything from fine dining to street food, tacky souvenirs and nightclubs - so its something you will want to check out.
